MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, MONDAY, MAY 14, 1945

Number 22

DR. LINDQUIST AND MR. DUGGAN TO TALK

College President and Man
From Washington Are Invited Speakers.

Dr. Emory Kempton Lindquist, president of Bethany College, Lindsborg, Kan., and a member of the Lutheran Church, will give the baccalaureate address to the graduating class of 1945 at 11:00 o'clock, Sunday morning, May 20, in the College auditorium. The public is invited. Local ministers will participate in the service.

Dr. Emory took his baccalaureate degree from Bethany College in 1930. Having received a Rhodes Scholarship, he went to Oxford University, England, from 1930 to 1933. There he received both the B.A. and the M.A. degrees. He also studied in the university at Grenoble, France. In 1941 he received the Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Colorado. He has held the presidency of Bethany College since 1943. He had become a member of the faculty in 1933 as professor of history and political science. From 1938 to 1941, he was vice-president of the college and from 1941 to 1943, he was acting president.

Commencement Activities to Be Held Throughout Week of May 18 to May 23

Commencement activities for the graduating class of 1945 begin on Friday afternoon, May 18, when President and Mrs. Uel W. Lamkin will hold the annual reception to the senior class at the College Residence.

Other events of the commencement week include the baccalaureate services on Sunday morning, May 20; the Class Day exercises at 7:30 o'clock on Monday evening, on the lawn before the Administration building; the senior breakfast at 9:00 on Tuesday morning, at the College Cafeteria; the commencement exercises on Wednesday morning, May 23, in the College auditorium. All of these events, with the exception of the reception and the senior breakfast are open to the student body and the public.

Miss Montgomery Sings May 9; Miss Rusk, May 20

Two voice recitals by senior women close the individual music recitals of this spring at the College. Betty Jo Montgomery presented her voice recital at the Horace Mann auditorium on Wednesday evening, May 9. Mary Lou Rusk will sing next Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in the Horace Mann auditorium.

Numbers on Miss Montgomery's program were: "Caro Mio Ben," by Giordani; "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," by Haydn; "Come Unto Him," by Handel; "O Daughter of Zion," by Handel; "Apres Un Reve," by Foure; "Beau Sion," by Debussy; "A Dissonance," by Borodine; "L'Enfant Prodigue," by Debussy; "Du Bist Wie Eine Blume," by Schumann; "Du Bist Die Rub," by Schubert; "Morgen," by Strauss; "The Nightengale and the Rose," by Remisky; "The Last Hour," by Kramer; and "This Is the Moon of Roses," by Crist.

Miss Rusk will sing "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," by Handel; "Ave Marie," by Bach and Gounod; "Ich Liebe Dich," by Edvard Grieg; "None But the Lonely Heart," by Tchaikovsky; "Over the Steppe," by Alexandre Gretchaninoff; "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Anton Dvorak; "Vissi D'Arte," by Giacomo Puccini; "After a Dream," by Gabriel Faure; "Last Rose of Summer," by Fredrich Von Flotow; "Clouds," by Ernest Charles; "Sea-Wash," by Marlan Kerr; "Velvet Shoes," by Elnor Wylie; "Old Maid's Song," a Kentucky folk song; "Summertime," by George Gershwin; and "Oh! Sweet Mystery of Life," by Victor Herbert.

The Academic procession for the Commencement exercises will form at Residence Hall for the graduates and at the Library for the faculty. The marshal for the Senior Class will start the procession; the faculty will join the procession at the library; the administrative officers, including the President, the Dean, and the members of the Board of Regents, together with the speaker of the morning, will join the procession in the corridor of the second floor of the Administration building. Everybody will be in academic dress.

The faculty, the administrative officers, and the speaker will be seated on the stage of the auditorium. The graduates will occupy the center section of seats in the auditorium. Those who have completed the work for the degree will go to the stage to have their degrees conferred. Those who expect to receive the degree at the end of the summer term or the intersession will stand when their names are called.

At the close of the exercises, the president and the speaker, followed by the other administrative officers, the faculty, and the graduating class, will leave the auditorium first.

Officers Are Elected for New Christian Association

Officers for the Student Christian Association were elected recently and are: President, Mary Jane Larison; vice-president, Carl Christy; secretary, Betty Stroeber; and treasurer, Eugene Culhane.

Faculty sponsors of the organizations are Miss Irene Mueller, Miss Olive DeLuce, Mr. W. T. Garrett, Mr. John Rudin, Dr. J. Richard Wilmeth, and Dr. Harry Dildine.

THE COLLEGE OATH

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our College, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will revere and obey the College laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

IN THAT NEW POSITION

As many students at the College are going out to teach next year there are several suggestions which they would do well to follow, according to those who have had the experience.

Anyone with any curiosity will find out all he can about the community, the school, the students before the opening day. To do this it is well to arrive a week early. One of the most helpful things for the teacher is to be able to call the students by their names on the first day, and this can be done if she, or he, visits the homes or studies the annuals. Never just "drop in" at a student's home, but make arrangements for calling beforehand.

Refuse to be prejudiced about anything, and especially about the students. It is an unwise act to criticize former teachers, or those still in the system, before the students, or before anyone else. Cooperate, even if it hurts.

Do not be hasty, and do use care in choosing friends, a place to live, and activities in which to participate in a new community. One should consider his own happiness, and also conform to the rules of the living quarters, activities, and community feeling.

Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority held active initiation for Meredee Myers at a meeting on April 25.

STROLLER

The Stroller heard an old-fashioned school bell the other day—the first he had ever heard. It was Mr. Dietrich wielding it as though he had grown up on school bells. When the electric bell failed to function, the old hand bell came in handy.

High School Holds Annual Parents' Night April 26

Parents Night was held for the eighth annual year at Horace Mann High School on Thursday, April 26. Its purpose is to exhibit to parents of the students the type of work that has been done during the school year in the various departments and at the industrial arts metal shop.

Projects exhibited by the Industrial Arts department consisted of wood-work and metal work. Other exhibits came from the departments of Science, mathematics, English, Spanish, commerce, social science, home economics, art and vocational agriculture, and from the junior high school. A program was given to entertain the guests. The president of the student body, Donald Donahue, gave a welcome, and Rev. W. G. Reed gave the response. Musical numbers were presented, as well as a one-act play and a series of skits, which depicted "Glimpses of a School Day." Refreshments were served after the program.

Those who composed the committee of exhibits and displays were Rosanna Carter, Melville Strong, Marilyn Doran, Phyllis Dempsey, Ralph Reed, Jimmy Tompson, Marilyn Gard, Esta Jean Birkenholz, Ruth Ledgerwood, Eldon Jenson, Charlene Patterson and Jo Ellen Wilson.

Those in charge of the program were Mrs. Rosalie Mitchell, Mr. Herbert Dieferich, Roberta Mitchell, Irene Hunter, Ray Goodman, and Bill Garrett.

The refreshment committee was Miss Marjorie Elliot, the home economics student teachers, and Home Economics II class.

Nancy Schulte, Nellie Schneider, and Richard Baker were responsible for the invitations.

Robert Montgomery left Maryville, May 5, to report to Fort Leavenworth, for service in the army. Mr. Montgomery was a freshman at the College.

The Future Teachers of America have ordered two victory flags, one of which is to be placed below the American flag in the Auditorium. They are to be flown when victory has come in the European theater of war.

Miss Olive S. DeLuce, head of the Fine Arts department, went to Kansas City to attend a meeting of the Western Arts association meeting there May 5-6.

A.A.U.W. Has Annual Reception for Seniors

The American Association of University Women entertained the senior women at the Dream Kitchen with a tea and program on the evening of May 3.

Speakers on the program, of which Miss Dorothy Truex, Director of Personnel for Women, was chairman, were Dr. Blanche Dow, head of the Foreign Language department at the College, and Miss Harriet Harvey, a former student at the College and now a teacher in the Eugene Field school. Dr. Dow spoke on "College Woman and the Future," and Miss Harvey spoke on "Advantage of A.A.U.W. to a Recent Graduate."

Refreshments were served following the program.

Juniors Will Have Picnic Monday Night for Seniors

The junior class at the College will entertain the seniors at a Junior-Senior party next Monday night, May 21, after the senior Class Night exercises. The picnic will be at the Bearcats' Den.

Members of the general committee for the party are Mary Lloyd Taul, chairman, Louise Gorsuch, Blaine Steck, Virginia McGinness, Irene Mumford, Marilyn Bailey, and Mary Lyon.

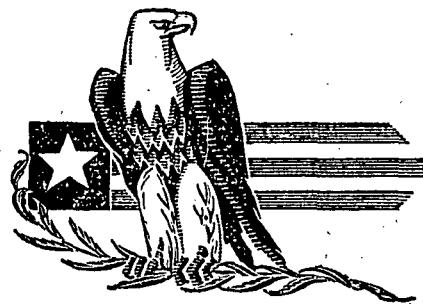

Betty Jennings Attends University While Working

Miss Betty Jennings, who graduated from the College at the close of the winter semester, is working with the Army Ordnance Unit at the Moore School of Electrical Engineering, at the University of Pennsylvania. She goes one hour a day to the University to a course in ballistics, and during the other seven hours does computation work at the unit.

Miss Jennings, in a letter to Dr. Ruth Lane of the Mathematics department at the College, says that she works on bombing tables and artillery fire tables which are based on actual data received from battle fronts. "I am very much pleased with the work," she writes.

The Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity held election and installation of officers on the evening of April 26. Officers installed were President, Blaine Steck; vice-president, Wallace Carpenter; secretary, Richard Wiesman; and treasurer, Donald Barber.

The Horace Mann Junior-Senior combination Prom-Banquet was held the evening of May 8, at the Country Club. The junior class had charge of the program built around a Dutch theme. Mrs. Robert Mitchell is sponsor of the event.

THOSE IN THE SERVICE OF

Our Country

Ensign Charles Curry Is "On Leave" from Hospital

Ensign Charles S. Curry, a graduate of the College in 1939, visited the College on May 2, with his wife and daughter, Sherry May, nine months old. Ensign Curry is on leave from a hospital, where he has been having treatments for his eyes.

The injury to Ensign Curry's eyes came as a result of some exploding bombs. Later his ship, the Cole, was caught in a hurricane off the east coast of the United States last fall, and Ensign Curry had to keep watch for many hours because others were sea-sick. As a result the strain on his eyes was too much, and he was withdrawn from service and sent to the hospital at the Naval Operating Base, Norfolk, Va. Later he was transferred to the U. S. Navy Medical Center at Bethesda, Md., from which place he has his leave.

Ensign Curry, who expects to receive his commission as Lieutenant (j.g.) as soon as he is released from the hospital, will return to Bethesda for orders. He says the promotion will be retroactive, in that it was due him when he entered the hospital.

The experiences of Ensign Curry have been varied since he went into the service of the Navy. His sea duty has been on destroyers. He spent about three weeks with a training crew with the English, but did not go to sea with them. Part of his work has been as temporary damage control officer on a broken deck destroyer. One of his experiences on the Cole was on "grocery runs" as escort to supply ships from North Africa to southern France and Italy.

The Cole was once the world's fastest ship. The College alumnus was torpedo officer on this four-stack ship, which now flies a presidential citation. After sea-going duty, the Cole and its crew were attached to Quonset, R. I., for experimental work. They were later attached to a Task Force that went to South America. It was while engaged in this operation that the Cole was caught in the hurricane. Ensign Curry said that a steering gear casualty came early and that the ship turned broadside and at times he thought it was in grave danger of sinking.

Soldiers Hear of Each Other Through Paper

Through information contained in the Northwest Missourian, Capt. Richard W. (Dick) Dempsey, checked up on Cpl. Herschel Neil and found that they were in the same Infantry Division.

"But," says Capt. Dempsey, "before I had the opportunity to look him up, we took off across the Rhine. The past few weeks have not been very conducive to social meetings, and so I have not as yet had the chance to see him. I hope I may soon."

Capt. Dempsey continues: "While we were parked on the Rhine during March, Capt. Erman Bird came by to see me one day. We had always been within a few miles of each other throughout the Battle of the Bulge in Belgium, but were never able to make contact. Once we were in a small village together, but didn't know it. Finally when we did get together, we had a fine little reunion. You can guess that most of the talk was about the happiness of our college days."

Lieut. Morris Spangler Receives His Gold Wings

Lieut. Morris Spangler, who had received his air pilot's wings at Corpus Christi, Tex., just one week previously, was a guest at the College on May 2. He had a ten-day leave before reporting to Sanford, Fla., for operational training.

Lieut. Spangler says that he continues to work with clay, a type of art expression he began while in the College. He has made a bas-relief of a girl's head from a picture in Coronet magazine and another of a boy's head from a photograph in a rota-gravure section of a Sunday paper. He says he has had the good fortune to room with some men who were also interested in art.

Clyde Saville, seaman first class, was recently a visitor in Maryville. He was a civilian and also a V-12 student at the College. Seaman Saville has been transferred from Great Lakes to the naval base at Shoemaker, Calif.

MEXICAN SPEAKER TALKS GOOD-WILL

Says Two Countries So Near Must Be Good Friends.

Roberto de la Rosa, ambassador of good-will from Mexico, spoke on the relations of Mexico and the United States at the College assembly, May 2.

Greeting his audience with great friendliness, the speaker gave his audience the American's idea of what the typical Mexican is: The Mexican is small, has a huge, drooping mustache, wears a big sombrero, can throw a knife with great expertness, and always plays the villain—in the American movie, which gives the American his idea of the Mexican, and in which the bad Mexican always gets killed.

On the other hand, the Mexican's idea of the American is that he is large, speaks from the corner of his mouth, wears his hat pulled down over his eyes, and carries a machine gun in a violin case—for so he is portrayed in the pictures the Mexicans see.

Peoples Should Visit

Both pictures, said Mr. De la Rosa, are false and unfair. Only through visiting each other and coming to know each other's habits and attitudes can a fair idea be gained, the speaker said.

One thing the speaker said people of the United States should understand was the class system of Mexico, a system based upon blood and race mixtures. He listed these classes as being four in number: the pure-blooded Indian, or lowest class, of 5,000,000 people; the Mestizo, of Spanish and Indian blood, 10,000,000 in number; the Creoles, who are the descendants of Spanish families who settled Mexico—the most important class, composed of 4,000,000 people; and the Mexican of some other descent than Spanish or Indian, comprising 1,000,000 people.

In Colorful Costume

Dressed in a colorful costume with gold embroidery, wearing a bright serape over his shoulder, carrying a big sombrero and a guitar, Mr. De la Rosa commented upon the Mexican costume. He said that the costume was the dress-up costume of the peasant, worn on festival occasions. The serape, he said, served for an overcoat. He brandished a big knife, but he read on it "Made in the U.S.A." He poked fun at the American idea of what the Mexican eats, saying he was going to take the recipe for "Mexican chill" back to Mexico with him, for he "rather liked it," having eaten it first in the United States!

To close his program, Mr. De la Rosa, played and sang to demonstrate how the Mexican lover serenade his lady. He surprised his audience by telling them that a man had to have a license before he could go serenading. He confessed that since he had come to Missouri he was beginning to think that the Mexican way of love-making with all the difficulties of the system of chaperoning the young lady was "a little silly" and that the "direct method" of the Missourians might suit him better.

Fantasy by Students Has Place on Radio Program

Yvonne Yeater, Margaret Poff, Lily-bell Bucker, and Wallace Carpenter made a transcription Saturday, April 28, at Station KMA, Shenandoah, Ia., to be used on the station program at 10:30 p. m., April 30.

The program was a fantasy, "The Searchlight and the Moon," which was made by the group for the American Legion. The fantasy is a play in which the searchlight shows the moon all the things the American Legion has done for children. The program was directed by Mr. John J. Rudin, head of the Speech department.

Mr. Laurence Duggan, chief of the division of American Republics in the State Department, Washington, D. C., will deliver the commencement address to the graduates on Wednesday morning, May 23, at 10:00 o'clock in the College auditorium.

Mr. Duggan is a graduate of Phillips Exeter Academy and has the B.A. degree from Harvard University. In 1929 and 1930, he was with the Institute of International Education. Since 1930 he has been with the United States Department of State. In 1938, he was adviser to the United States delegation to the Eighth Conference on American States, at Lima, Peru. He was chairman of the United States delegates to the Inter-American Travel Congress that met in San Francisco in April of 1939. He served as adviser to the Secretary of State at the second meeting of foreign ministers of American Republics, at Havana, Cuba, 1940.

Darrell Foster Visits College

Ensign Darrell Foster was a visitor at the College on May 2. He was a former student at the College, and was also in the Navy V-12 here until July, 1944, when he was transferred to Park College, Parkville, before going to Midshipmen's school. Ensign Foster was graduated from Midshipmen's school at Columbia University on April 26, with the twenty-third graduating class. He was on his way to San Francisco.

Three Go From College to Conference in Chicago

President Uel W. Lamkin, Dean J. W. Jones, and Dr. M. C. Cunningham represented the College April 30, and May 1, when they attended the University of Chicago Teachers College Conference Group in Chicago. The conference was held at the Palmer House.

The program consisted of discussions on four topics: Experiments in Curriculum Organization and Evaluation; Audio-Visual Aids in Teacher Training; Recruitment of Students in Teachers Colleges; and A Study of Staff Loads in Teachers Colleges. Dean Jones was the presiding officer at the first meeting of the conferences.

Two Petty Officers Join Navy Ship's Company Here

Two men have joined the ship's company of the Navy V-12 at the College. They are Robert O. Clark, pharmacist third class, and Frank L. Luke, specialist first class.

Mr. Clark has seen duty in the Pacific before coming to Maryville from Great Lakes. His home is at Chetopa, Kan. Mr. Luke is replacing Chief Dario Croce in physical training. His home is at St. Louis.

Miss Louise Evans, storekeeper second class, who is stationed at the Naval Air Station at Atlanta, Ga., recently visited several days with Helen Marchbank, storekeeper with the Navy V-12 Unit at the College.
